“Shift into Wellness Synergy Summit”

Around the world we offer our talents and skills under different titles and disciplines of study. Many of us are accomplished with a wide range of skills and experience. There are several key tools that are distinct to our profession and to the success of the programs we offer, the client session successes, and the outreach we can do to our communities and for ourselves. Yes, we are unique, and our skills are making miracles around the world.

This “Shift into Wellness Synergy Summit” brings some of the key tools into focus to support the development of our understanding of the tools, their research and science, as well as their impact with other wellness professions. This isn’t just a conference. This is a year of skill building and education with a community that speaks your language.

At the end of your studies, you will have a solid understanding of the latest research, the significant and newest protocols that will change how you assist others and run your business, and you will have the ability to advance your education in this field while getting to know others around the world.
HOW COOL IS THAT?!

What are the key tools?

1. Manual BioFeedback (Also referred to with many names, including the tools named Muscle Response Testing, Muscle Monitoring, Muscle Testing). This is the ability to personalize protocols and sessions. It includes monitoring a specific muscle, using an indicator muscle, and assessing the biofield manually. It also develops awareness and the use of the senses for facilitators, clients and students.

2. Goal Setting/Intention Our classes, sessions, meetings, programs, business plans all begin with a goal or intention and a balance of energy towards its success. This can be accomplished through Goal Statements, Mind Maps, Intention Setting and Imagery. Used daily, we have a unique way to live attentively and in flow.
3. Action for Energy Flow No matter what tool, protocol, or movement we make, we have the ability to bring flow to the body and biofield, and to engage the Innate Healing Potential in all of us.
4. Community Our ability to connect with others, engage compassion in action (not just empathize or sympathize), and to activate the innate healing potential in others and ourselves provides us with a powerful bond and an easy way to “Shift into Wellness.”

Our Synergy Summit is organized to provide you with resources prior to the 3 presentation weekends. It has Breakout Sessions, National Collaborations, and Global Initiatives. There is the chance to be online in a Healing Session, to review Presentation Posters of the latest science, to be educated by a complete journal of this esteemed Mastermind Panel of Presenters, and to make new friends and colleagues while you develop Business skills and Technique Proficiency.

Ready to learn more? Throughout the coming months we will be sharing more about our Mastermind Panel and their backgrounds, we will have articles and videos to watch, a Pre-Summit series to get you started into new ideas. Follow the details as they are unrolled. Most importantly...
